The BFG

Read this passage about dreams.

“He got out an enormous empty glass jar the size of a washing machine. He clutched it to his chest and hurried towards the shelves on which stood the thousands and thousands of smaller jars containing captured dreams.

“Dreams about giants,” he muttered to himself as he searched the labels.

“The giants is guzzling human beans ... no, not that one ... nor that one ... here’s one! ... And here’s another ... “

He grabbed the jars and unscrewed the tops.

What dreams would you like to have? Make up some dreams and draw them in the jars.
